Kingston On List of Crossing Eliminations

Elimination of 203 grade crossings in upstate New York, including about fifty in the Capital district, is recommended for the 1928 program, the state public service commission announced Friday at Albany. The estimated cost of elimination, fixed by the commission at $30,867,000, can be met by the $300,000,000 bond issue championed by Governor Smith, the commission pointed out.

The following eliminations are scheduled for Ulster county: Highland Gardner Pt. 2, New York, New York and H. Plattkill, $100,000; Broadway, New York Central-Kingston, $600,000; Saugerties-Kingston, New York Central, Ulster, $188,000; Port Ewen (Clay Road), New York Central, Esopus, $7,600; Forest Glen, Wallkill Valley, Gardner, $2,500.

Big Bazaar At St. Mary's

It is expected that many will visit St. Mary's parish annual bazaar tonight which opened Friday in the school hall under the auspices of the united societies of the church. A goodly number visited the school hall Friday despite the inclement weather and found plenty to interest them. A special attraction for men proved a magnetic feature of the bazaar and no doubt will hold sway throughout the event.

St. Mary's hall looks beautiful displaying the handiwork of many an artist in decorating. Booths of all descriptions made most attractive with crepe paper and lighting effects of various hues are filled with articles most suitable for Christmas gifts. There is a wide variety of articles of glassware, aluminum, foodstuffs, blankets, candy and fancy articles for sale at reasonable prices. Refreshments also form an attraction at the bazaar.

The Rev. William H. Kennedy, assistant pastor, who is taking charge of the bazaar, has received many compliments upon the successful way he and his workers made the event materialize from the plans which were formulated but a few weeks ago.

St. Mary's hall will be open early tonight and workers will be on hand to cater to patrons expected to visit the bazaar in large numbers.

$13,600 For Death of Woman

State Must Pay Damages Due to Accident Caused by Excessively Oiled Road Near Poughkeepsie.

The Court of Claims of the state on Thursday handed down a decision awarding to Otto Kirchhaer, as administrator of Louisa Merk, damages for her death, including interest, in the sum of $13,600, and also to Karl Merk, owner of the car in which she was a passenger when killed, $1,100 for damages to the machine.

William A. Mulvey of Poughkeepsie is attorney for both claimants and the cases were tried for him by former Judge William D. Cunningham, of Cunningham & Kaercher, 277 Fair street.

Mrs. Merk, her husband and others were proceeding on the state road south of Poughkeepsie, when they reached a hill freshly and excessively oiled by the state. They observed a car careening down the hill toward them, skidding in the oil and obviously out of control. They pulled over to the side of the road and stopped. When the other car came near them, it turned around completely and struck the stationary car, killing Mrs. Merk.

Diphtheria Clinic Monday

Another of the weekly series of free diphtheria clinics will be held Monday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock in the Central Fire Station by Dr. Daniel Connolly, city health officer.

At the clinic last Monday thirty children were admitted. These clinics are proving popular with parents who desire to have their children immunized from diphtheria. In order to be immunized it is necessary for children to receive three injections of toxin-antitoxin at intervals of a week apart.

Simpson Killed In Auto Crash

State Trooper E. M. Simpson of Troop C Died of Fractured Skull at Bainbridge Thursday—Deceased Was Son of Jeremiah Simpson of Kerhonkson.

State Trooper E. M. Simpson of Troop C died at 7:10 o'clock Thursday night of a fractured skull and internal injuries sustained in an automobile accident at the Four Corners in Bainbridge that afternoon. He was driving his Ford car from Bainbridge toward Sidney when an automobile operated by John E. Blencoe, Bainbridge, R. D. 2, came out of a side street from the railroad station and collided with the rear end of the trooper's car. The car was upset and Trooper Simpson pinned underneath.

Simpson was rushed to the Bainbridge Emergency Hospital, where he died early that evening from the injuries received.

The Oneonta Star of Friday in reporting the tragedy, states: Trooper Simpson was 30 years of age and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Simpson of Kerhonkson, Ulster county. He became a member of Troop C, Sidney, of the New York state police on March 1, 1917. Until a week ago he was located on patrol at Schenectady. At the time of the fatal accident he was engaged in serving subpoenas issued from the county court at Cooperstown.

He was a young man of excellent character, and was a most efficient trooper. In speaking of him last evening, Captain Daniel E. Fox of Troop C, praised him in the highest terms the service he had rendered. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last evening but will be held from his home in Kerhonkson. Corporal Skelly and Corporal Mitter of Troop C, under the personal direction of Captain Daniel E. Fox, investigated the accident. It was stated last night that they found that Blencoe's car was without brakes. It is probable that some action will be taken.

Fifty Years With New York Central

Michael Heinickel, aged 70 years, completes fifty years of service with New York Central Lines.

Michael Heinickel of 23 Stephan street, this city, was retired by the New York Central Lines last Wednesday on arriving at the age limit of 70 years, after fifty years and one month in the employ of the railroad as brakeman. Mr. Heinickel had been employed at the Weehawken yards and roomed at West New York.

Wednesday afternoon when Mr. Heinickel removed his overalls for the last time after completing over half a century on the road, the incident occasioned a din that almost reminded one of the signing of the armistice, or the return of Lindbergh. He retired at the end of his shift at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday and every whistle in the yard was tied down as he walked out for the last time. As the minute of his retirement arrived there went up a screeching of whistles, blowing of horns and ringing of bells from the railroad yards and roundhouse in Weehawken. The din was kept up for a quarter of an hour, during which hundreds of telephone calls were received asking what the reason of the apparent celebration was.

Mr. Heinickel was born in Honesdale, Pa., November 24, 1857. He entered the employ of the New York Central Railroad as brakeman in the Thirty-third street, New York, yards on October 6, 1877, and on March 22, 1892, was transferred to Weehawken. He is a widower and while employed in Weehawken roomed at 401 Ninth street, West New York, although his home was in this city.

Flood Situation In Western N. Y.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—Cold weather and snow were expected to bring relief to flooded areas in this section of western New York today.

Although the Genesee river was rising at the Court street dam in this city, officials said they believed the deepened river channel would carry the water away without difficulty.

The lowlands south of the city in the Scottsville Road area were inundated with the water five feet deep in some places. A number of families were marooned but in no danger, according to the Monroe county sheriff's office.

Define This And Be Rewarded

First Thirty Persons Who Will Extract True Meaning From a Wonderful Word Will Receive Prizes—Santa Claus to Bring Answer on December 10.

"Stahnetuapetawuuns" is a rather long and somewhat mysterious word but it means a great deal to every person in Kingston and surrounding territory. The word has puzzled a great many, among them the members of the Uptown Business Men's Association so they have decided to offer prizes to the first 30 persons who guess the solution to the mysterious word.

In order to solve the mystery the Merchants have decided to offer 30 prizes to the first 30 persons who send in the correct solution by noon on Monday, December 12.

The first ten persons sending in the solution will each receive a cash prize of $1; to the next ten persons there will be given a ticket to Read's Kingston theatre and the third prize, numbering another ten, will be some gift donated by the merchants. The word is somewhat mystifying and perhaps will baffle the majority of people but to others it will be easy.

All answers must be sent in to G. A. Flemmings, care of the L. B. Van Wagenen Company store, Wall street, and must be in by noon on the closing date or they will not be considered.

The Uptown Merchants have been in communication with Santa Claus and he claims that he has been having a hard time in the past season as there has been a flock of ornithobornhus which made it difficult to get through but he was managed to finally be here in Kingston with the Uptown Merchants on Saturday, December 10. At that time the Uptown Merchants intend to ask Santa Claus the meaning of the mysterious word "Stahnetuapetawuuns." Santa Claus has the key to the mystery and it is expected that he will be willing to give the information when he arrives in town.

Those who solve the mystery in the meantime should send in their answers so that the Uptown Merchants may award the prizes on Monday, December 12 after the contest at noon. The prizes will be awarded by the Uptown Merchants at the L. B. Van Wagenen store.

LOYD GEORGE BREAKS SILENCE ON FUND

London, Dec. 3 (AP)—Recent denunciations of Lloyd George alleging, among other things, that he "trafficked in honors", have led the war-time premier to break his silence on the origin and management of the campaign fund which came to be known as the Lloyd-George fund.

In a statement to the press, Lloyd-George says that the funds were collected by the whips of the National Liberal party, in exactly the same way as every other political fund for over a century. Referring to the allegations concerning honors, he says that the honors lists during his premiership were prepared in the usual way by the chief whips, and he did not know who might have subscribed to the fund.

Not one penny of the fund has been touched for his private use, he said.

Since he left office, the former premier asserted, he has worked successfully as a journalist to earn his living and his emoluments from this during the past four years have been much greater than the aggregate of his salaries during 17 years in office.

WANT MORE PAY FOR TUBERCULOSIS CATTLE

Ithaca, Dec. 3.—At the recent annual meeting of the State Farm Bureau Federation, held in Syracuse last month, delegates voted to ask the State Legislature for an increase in the amounts of indemnities paid for tubercular cattle.

This action of the Federation was prompted by the disparity which now exists between indemnities and present dairy cattle values. During the past two years the price of cattle has considerably increased, so that the scale of indemnities fixed by the state some time ago no longer affords adequate compensation to farmers having tubercular cattle condemned by the state. The case will be presented to the legislature when it convenes this winter by the Federation's Legislative Committee.

NASH AGENCIES TO OBSERVE XMAS WEEK

Christmas Week will be observed by Nash agencies from December 4 to 11. Attractive show room displays are being planned by dealers throughout the country. It has been announced that special easy terms for Christmas purchases will be made.

Community Christmas Tree At Court House

Uptown Merchants Secure Enormous Cedar Tree Which Will Be Crowned With Star and Wired With Colored Lights.

In addition to the 200 lighted Christmas trees which make up Kingston's Christmas Tree, the Uptown Merchants have secured and will place on the court house lawn, an enormous cedar tree.

The committee in charge have scoured the surrounding country and selected an evergreen which is about 30 feet high, and about as beautiful a shaped tree as has been seen in these parts in many years. It will be crowned with an electric lighted star, and wired throughout with hundreds of colored lights.

The setting for the tree is in the heart of the uptown business section and is ideal as well as picturesque. It is the intention of the business men to foster the singing of Christmas Carols around this tree, during the holiday season, thereby renewing in our community an old time Christmas custom.

Through the courtesy of the Board of Public Works, and the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co., the tree is being transported and erected.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission will hold an open competitive examination for the position of patrolman in the Kingston police department, December 12 and 13. Omit Cotton in Window Displays

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy has issued a warning to the mercantile houses of the city that in arranging their window displays for the Christmas season that cotton will not be allowed to be used unless it is the prepared fireproof cotton that may be obtained. The reason for eliminating cotton from window displays is to wipe out a fire hazard as cotton ignites easily and the flames from it spread rapidly.

ASSURES INDEPENDENTS OF VOTES ON THREE MEASURES

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Assurances were given today by Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, that there would be votes at the coming session on the three measures western independent Republicans desire acted upon.

Smith's Stand On Prohibition

Governor Breaks Silence on Prohibition Before League of Women Voters, Stating That Voters Have the Right to Fight the Volstead Act.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—Prohibition is still far from being a settled question, in the opinion of Governor Smith, and he sees no reason why any citizen or group of citizens should be condemned for expressing opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. But he is for enforcement of law and regards the Volstead act as part of New York state law.

Breaking the silence which has characterized his attitude on matters of national importance since he has been prominently mentioned as a Democratic nominee for the presidency, Governor Smith last night told the State League of Women Voters that he had not deviated in the slightest from his earlier opposition to the federal prohibition statutes.

In maintaining that opposition, he declared, he was not showing a lack of respect for the law, but was merely exercising the right of American citizens "to oppose any laws and any part of the Constitution with which they are not in harmony."

"The underlying principle of the Democratic form of government," he said, "is the right of the people to organize to oppose any law or any part of the Constitution with which they are not in sympathy. In many years of public service in this state, for 12 years as assemblyman, one year as sheriff, one year as delegate to the constitutional convention, one year as president of the board of aldermen (of New York city) and four times as governor, I have taken the oath to uphold the constitution of the state. And there are parts of it that I hate. I have promised to sustain it and I will sustain it. But I did not promise to give up the right to oppose parts of it that I do not like."

The collapse of the governor's wall of silence was brought about by a resolution prepared by the Nassau county chapter of the league, intended for introduction at today's session of the annual convention, in which unqualified enforcement of all laws was urged.

The celerity with which the governor seized upon the opportunity to take the Nassau county chapter to task and at the same time to make his first public pronouncement upon prohibition since signing a state prohibition referendum measure nearly two years ago, was generally viewed in convention and political circles here as a definite bid for the support of the women of New York state if he had been nominated by the Democratic national convention next year.

ROAD FROM KERHONKSON TO KYSERIKE COMPLETED

The concrete road from Kerhonkson to Kyserike, on which contractors have been working since late spring, has been completed, all concrete which will be laid this season, is in place, and open for its entire length, says the Ellenville Journal. The contractors are busy on Deyo's Hill, just north of Kerhonkson, in padding the shoulders of the road, preparatory to erecting a guard rail there. Hay is still being cured on a small portion of the hill and will probably be removed this week, as will the cover just below the Accord bridge. As things stand, the most important link in the highways of Ulster county is not only ready for traffic, but it is the finest road possible to get and a positive joy to journey over it.

State surveyors have finished laying out the line for a new road from this village to Kerhonkson and it is probable that instead of jarring the three and a half miles now on the state map, that contracts will be let for the entire strip commencing at the top of Budd's Hill, Ellenville, and connecting with the strip just below Kerhonkson.

WILDCAT TRAPPED NEAR MOHONK HAD TO BE SHOT

On Saturday morning, Alfred Slater of Buttrickville, who had been trapping for foxes, skunks and other wild animals in the mountains, found a wildcat in a trap in the neighborhood of Mohonk. The cat broke the drag and leaped at the trapper, who had to shoot him twice with a pistol to keep from getting clawed.

The animal measured five feet two inches from tip to tip and weighed 30 pounds. It was bought by John Deminger, and Harold Krum will mount it for him.

The increasing number of wild animals on the mountains side is believed to be due to the fact that more of the land is growing up in woods.

Russia wanted the commission to meet again on January 10, but the commission put the date off until March 15.

The annual meeting of John N. Cordts Hose Company No. 1 was held Thursday evening and was one of the largest attended meetings in the history of the company, which shows that the volunteer firemen's spirit is not on the wane on the hill in Ponckhockie.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year:

Cordts Hose Company expects to make a good showing in the parade of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association to be held here next June.

Girl's Father Settled H. C. L. Complication

A congressman investigating the high cost of living said to a Washington correspondent:

"The h. c. l. is responsible for many vagaries and queer complications.

"A young chap who had got engaged to a girl was talking over the future with her.

"With prices what they are," said the girl, "we must be content, George dear, with a small flat and one or, at the most, two servants."

"George coughed.

"It's my idea," he said, "to live with your old man the first couple of years."

"But, George—

"That's my idea," he interrupted. "Think of the money we can save. No rent, no light, no grub bills, no coal."

"But—

"I insist on this thing," George interrupted again. "I tell you, I—"

"Then the door opened softly and the girl's father entered the room.

"Children," he said, tenderly, "I have decided that when you get married I'll come and live with you for the rest of my life."—Washington Star.

Starts Life as Poor Boy; Sells Out for 23 Millions

B. Z. POLI (International Illustrated News)

When Horatio Alger wrote those popular tales of penniless youths attaining untold wealth by grit, persistence and sagacity, little did he realize they would parallel in real life the astounding career of Sylvester Zeffarino Poli of New Haven, Conn.

Recently the wires thrummed to the news that Poli had disposed of his vast theatrical holdings throughout New England for a sum said to be in the immediate neighborhood of twenty-three million dollars.

What the wires didn't say, however, was that Poli came to America as an immigrant in 1881, deserting his native town of Lucca, Italy, for the land of opportunity.

He started in as a modeler in clay and wax. Then the showman's urge swept over him, and he opened an exhibit somewhat along the lines of the famed Eden Musee, in Chicago. Soon after, he expanded with branches in Toronto, Rochester and Staten Island, N. Y.

From there, he started straight-out theatrical work, revamping an old church in Troy, N. Y., into a playhouse. Then came his entry into New Haven, his institution of a musical hall in that city, and the real foundation for his success was laid.

Followed quickly his building of theatres in every large city of New England, and his invasion of Washington, Baltimore, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre. And soon he had a vaudeville circuit of his own. Poli has received several decorations from the King of Italy, and Mrs. Poli was decorated by a number of European royalties for her really remarkable work for the wounded during the World War.

MIDGET COUPLE SEEKING DIVORCE

It's the little things in life that count, and Ike Matina and his wife, Margaret, of Jacksonville, Fla., two well-known midgets, have applied to the courts for a nullification of their marriage. They are believed to be the first midgets to seek such a separation. Ike and Margaret assert that they "aren't mad at each other," but they just simply can't seem to get along together.

Award Prizes to Electric Workers

As a result of the Christmas lighting contest of the Electric Service League of Kingston, the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation has organized a Christmas decorative lighting activity for their employees. Since the lighting corporation is affiliated with the Electric Service League, it was decided that employees of that corporation could not be eligible for the prizes offered in the regular city-wide contest for homes. Realizing that many employees would be interested in planning and installing effective Christmas decorations for their homes, the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation is encouraging this community spirit by offering prizes for the best decorated employees' homes.

The conditions for the employee contest are practically the same as in the city-wide competition, except that the installations must be complete and lighted by December 19, instead of the 22nd. This is entirely apart from the regular contest and the homes entered in the Central Hudson competition will not be eligible to compete for prizes in the other contest.

In Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Beacon, where city-wide Christmas lighting contests are also being conducted by the electrical leagues, the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation has organized an employee contest as well as in this city.

As previously published in The Freeman the out-door Christmas lighting contest for homes organized by the Electric Service League of Kingston is open to all residents of the city of Kingston except members of the Electric Service League and employees of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation.

The rules, which have been announced will soon be available in printed form at the stores and offices of members of the Electric Service League, and will contain a coupon which may be used for registration as well as the one printed elsewhere in this paper.

GEOLOGISTS FIND LAKE STATES ONCE INLAND SEA

Conclusions of Scientists Based on Finding of Marine Fossils in Michigan Rock.

Washington.—At some time in the Devonian era of geologic time the area now occupied by Michigan and the adjacent Great Lakes was covered with a vast inland sea cut off from the Atlantic except for the narrow channel of Hudson bay. This conclusion is one of the results of an expedition undertaken last summer by the Smithsonian Institution in co-operation with the department of geology of the Milwaukee public museum.

The sea disappeared due to gradual uplifting from the west eastward, but it left the key to its presence and its history in the rich fossil deposits of marine fauna which the expedition of this summer uncovered.

According to Erwin R. Pohl of the National museum under the Smithsonian, the fossils of shellfish and corals in the Michigan shales are among the best preserved that have ever been found. Mr. Pohl brought back from 2,000 to 3,000 different kinds of invertebrate fossils, over half of which belong to undescribed species.

The purposes of the recent expedition were to carry on work begun a year ago on the determination of the geologic stratification of Michigan, to identify material now in the National museum, previously obtained from this region, and to collect new material.

As an incidental result, it has been shown that the Devonian rocks of Michigan are not contemporaneous with those of New York, where it has formerly been believed that a complete section was present, but were laid down in a time interval when none were being deposited there, and the geologic column has thus been extended by the addition of the 500 feet of beds in this state.

Sees Birds as Carriers of Infantile Paralysis

Charleston, W. Va.—A West Virginia physician has advanced a theory that migratory birds may be carriers of infantile paralysis and the cause of periodic outbreaks of that disease.

Dr. I. H. McCuskey of Moundsville presents this idea in a paper for the West Virginia Medical Journal, the official publication of the State Medical association.

Doctor McCuskey's study of his theory dates back to a discovery he made during a paralysis epidemic in 1918. A paralyzed bird fluttering around his chickens and another bird, unable to walk or fly, that he found in a ditch outside the pen, brought the problem to his attention.

It was but a few days later that he found another paralyzed bird in the mesh pan of a separate pen where two chickens were kept and his theory got further substantiation, when, after feeding the chickens for two mornings from the same pan without cleansing it, both chickens developed paralysis.

The recent epidemic of paralysis which reached a peak in the section of this and neighboring states not far from Marshall county, again gave support to Doctor McCuskey's theory and he says that during this year's epidemic he found a number of paralyzed birds, which might have infected fruit in orchards.

Delay in Documents Due to Flea-Infested File

Washington.—A thrilling report telling how he was savagely attacked by an army of fleas has been submitted by a colored employee of the general accounting office to explain his delay in getting some documents from a filing room in the Treasury building.

"Just when I was about to withdraw the desired documents," he said in his formal report, "I felt a great pulling and gnawing on my lower extremities, and looked and beheld that I was literally covered from the knees down with the little vermin."

"Without a word of admonishment or caution," he continued, "this army of noxious insects sprang upon me from the floor and began biting in a most savage manner, each having stickability greater than the adhesiveness of a postage stamp, even the smaller ones sticking till death. After procuring help to assist me in making the little pests let me alone, I then started driving them out from where they were hiding in the file."

Physician Declares Woman Power Wasted

Nottingham, England.—The world is wasting its woman power, according to Dr. R. G. Hogarth, former president of the British Medical association and senior surgeon of the general hospital here.

Speaking at the London School of Medicine for Women, he pleaded for a greater introduction of women into the medical profession.

"The widening range of the special diseases of women and the special ailments of children belong naturally to women."

"Every woman is at heart a doctor. It does not matter whether her knowledge is of simples and herbs, of hot-water bottles and poultices, of patent medicines and soothing, comforting drinks, and of what is good to wear next to the skin. She has the wish to serve, the desire to help, the readiness to give, and these are enduring qualities."

LIFE WORTH LIVING

WITH A HEALTHY STOMACH

The man or woman with a good stomach is fortunate. When food can be enjoyed without discomfort or stomach pains, then life is worth living. Chronic indigestion, which keeps a man from normally satisfying his hunger, because of the pain and discomfort which will result, brings about malnutrition and a generally undernourished condition. Weakened in this way, the sufferer easily becomes a victim of more serious troubles.

When such a chronic indigestion occurs, there is a reason—a cause—and Chiropractic more definitely locates and corrects this cause than any other method of treatment.

STOMACH HEALTH IS RESTORED.

"At the age of sixteen I went into a shop. The hard work and poor meals gave me a nervous stomach weakness. I suffered terribly for four years, paying specialists of all kinds for relief which never came. I had about given up hope when I began Chiropractic adjustments. Today I am sound and well!"—Bessie Tau, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Sworn Statement No. 1245D.

Our success is due to our policy of never accepting cases that we cannot benefit.

In addition to the training received at the world's most prominent Chiropractic universities, supplemented by thirteen years' actual practice and observation, we have originated and are using our own system of painless treatment which is a distinct advance over methods commonly in use.

Severe Head Colds and Sinus Trouble THE MOST ANNOYING OF ALL AILMENTS

Any study made from a cold that does not clear up in a few days produces Sinus trouble. Some Sinuses are large cavities in the nose. Others are small (the bone cavity), and when a cold gets into them it causes pain, or pressure in the eye balls, or ear, or nose, or throat, or back of head, or in the face, and may drop in the throat. This leads to a choking cough, sore throat, head aches, and catarrhal discharges, due to improper drainage. To clear this up requires CANNIPHONOL, and intake according to directions.

CANNIPHONOL opens up the nose, and gets into the Sinuses, killing the germs that multiply by millions in these sticky cavities, reduces the inflamed swollen mucous membranes, and gives good drainage for the discharge. This is what every sufferer needs to obtain order to get results. It is impossible for germs to live in the antiseptic vapors produced by CANNIPHONOL. Keep a jar handy and use at the first signs of a cold.

Motorists have come to realize more and more every day that the safe buy in Gasoline is not a matter of luck; it is not a question of reaching in the hat and pulling out a lucky number. Few people can ever have a thoroughly intimate knowledge of different Gasolines and their respective merits. That is why so many drive up to an old tried and true ATLANTIC GAS STATION to eliminate the guesswork in choosing their Gasoline and Motor Oil. DRIVE WITH

Near East Relief Appeal

Golden Rule Sunday, an international observance, will be observed Sunday, to bring to mind the suffering children of the Near East. "A nation of orphans," and to remind Americans that material aid is necessary to care for approximately 33,000 children now under the supervision of Near East Relief workers. President Coolidge in a statement recommended the observance of Golden Rule Sunday and it is hoped that many will feel their duty to assist in aiding some orphans to carry on this life's struggle.

America has assisted in caring for 150,000 orphans in the Near East who have been made homeless and parentless through war, massacre and persecution. It is hoped that this country will continue to aid and the local committee is anxious that Kingston provide for fifty Near East Orphans. It costs approximately $5 a month or $60 a year to support a child in the stricken area. All contributions are to be sent to D. N. Matthews, treasurer, care of the state National Bank.

He Was a Man's Man

By AD SCHUSTER

OF TWO things Clifford Whittle, middle aged and a bachelor, was immensely proud. One was his knowledge of women and the other his love and understanding of the great outdoors. As he had always avoided the first and, indeed, evidenced rare shrewdness in evading them, that information concerning their manners and methods, which he thought was his, had come from books. He was one with Nature and the open space because, forsooth, one of his ancestors had been a scout and a pal of Daniel Boone's.

Clifford was small, thin and servile. What he lacked in stature or strength he made up in confidence. "I am," he would say to himself, "a man's man. It is only by accident I am tied to a set of books. Some day," and the bookkeeper looked out of the window with a yearning expression, "some day I'll answer the call that is here, here." And as he spoke he thumped his chest.

As fall approached, Clifford's longing for the hills, streams, and open plains, increased. For one thing, he was convinced that no less than three of the young women in the office were setting traps for his attention. Well, he would fool them. He knew women. "You know," he reminded his boss, "I didn't take a vacation last year. This year I plan to take a full month in the woods," he drew himself up seeking to look the part, "hunting and fishing, you know."

"It's a good plan," the boss agreed, "and I can tell you just where to catch the fish."

"Tell me where to fish!" Clifford snorted indignantly as he left the office. "Who does he think he is, anyhow?"

The bookkeeper spent a week reading all the books he could find on fish and big game. Then, with a surprising assortment of tackle and armament, he left civilization to look for himself while he consorted with nature. He felt a bit sorry for the girls in the office, knowing they would miss him more, perhaps, than they would care to admit.

And Clifford fished. He fished in four creeks and one lake, and his sole reward was a prize no larger than the palm of his hand. At the end of ten days it came upon him as a revelation, that he would have to seek advice.

"It is not that I do not know how to fish," he reasoned, "for that these countrymen hereabouts are in any way smarter than I. They have the advantage of residence. I'll ask the next person I see."

The next person was a girl. She was walking down a lane singing to herself when she met the khaki-clad fisherman. Clifford could afford to be superior.

"Perhaps you have heard some man say where fish are biting this season?" He held up a hand to indicate he was not through. "It isn't likely you are a fisherman, you know, and I am not seeking advice on how to catch them. But I would consider it a favor if you would direct me to a stream where the fish are, well, large and—er—hungry."

The girl looked at him curiously and Clifford thought she was admiring the fine figure he made. He had heard of men who broke the hearts of simple country girls but he, she could thank heaven, was not that kind. Doubtless she would think of him, the hero of her dreams, but he couldn't help that. The girl smiled but Clifford was on guard.

"You walk straight ahead a quarter of a mile. Take the path over the stile, through the woods. It leads to a patch of dense brush. Go right through and you'll find a pool. A beautiful pool and you will have it all to yourself."

In a pool that was all that had been promised, Clifford dropped his line. If there were any fish in the world, they would be here, he told himself, and he wondered how many he would catch. The ordinary angler might hook a dozen. Clifford, at modest estimate, was as good as any four ordinary fishermen. He wished he had brought a larger basket. He continued to wait but the fish had not been apprised of his coming.

After four hours, Clifford got up, stretched, turned around and looked at the board against which he had been leaning. It was a signboard and on it was painted:

"Reservoir No. 14, Rock Hill Water Company."

Rain water, impounded. The girl had said he would have it to himself. It was like fishing in a pail in his own back yard.

"Simple country girl, bah!" said Clifford, and as his legs weary with the hike to camp, he added his opinion of the open spaces. He is back at his books now and he talks as glibly as ever of his understanding of women and love of the outdoors. There is no way to cure a man like him.

How Vera Felt

Little Vera was visiting her aunt in a new and interesting city. She seemed well satisfied with her new surroundings, but her aunt, wishing to get her opinion of it, asked her if she wanted to go home.

Vera hesitated a moment, then said, rather dejectedly, "Aunt, I'm so happy where I am, but I'm just sad where I ain't."

Rickard Talks Of Tunney Bouts

New York, Dec. 3.—The Rickard brothers, who are the proprietors of the famous "Tunney" boxing club, are planning to have a "Tunney" bout with a proposition that will permit the heavyweight champion to fight a "Tunney" bout in 1928 in the city of New York.

Answering the big question of whether or not he will battle twice and possibly three times in the coming year—once for himself and twice for the club—Rickard declared that Tunney only has to choose his opponents to gain all the bouts he wants to have in the winter.

"If Tunney seeks fights to ward off the rust that he has brought about the long count knockdown Jack Dempsey scored at Chicago, then he can have them and in plenty," Rickard declared. "All he has to do is stop into the garden, night for two champions and—27½ per cent of the gate—and I'll put him on every other week. His earnings will be nothing like the return from the fight last September that netted him close to a million dollars, but if he is really in earnest, the financial aspect of the thing will not deter him."

"But Tunney is just bluffing himself when he talks of three heavy-weight championship matches this year. You told me at Chicago that one was enough, that he didn't want any more. There is a $1,000,000 purse in the line scrap, but only one show like that can be put on in a season. This offer would allow Tunney, too, to comply with the regulations of the New York Boxing Commission, that requires a champion to defend his title at least once every six months."

Albany Won From Hudson

The Albany representatives of the Metropolitan League defeated the Hudson team Friday night in the Capital City, 32-30. The game was in the air until the closing minutes when the Albanians dropped in the extra two points.

Pickens, former Dartmouth College star, did the high scoring of the contest by contributing 11 points to the Senators' score. Vincent and Knoblauch trailed him with 9 each, for Hudson. Superior foul shooting did the trick for the winners who tossed in 20 while the Hudson team registered 18. The quintets were even on the field shots, with 6 each.

Anderson Will Meet Bautista

BOBBY ANDERSON.

Bobby Anderson, brilliant feather-weight national guard fighter, is out to even matters up with Frisco Bautista, champion of the feather-weights in the Philippine Islands, when they meet in a semi-final eight-round bout at the armory Monday night.

Frisco Bautista, the featherweight champion from the Philippines, whom I am going to face Monday night, gave me the worst beating of my career in New York last month, writes Anderson from New York. I am out to even matters up.

Anderson is twenty-four years old. He took up professional boxing while working around the training camps. He has fought 75 battles since enlisting in the guard. Two of these were fifteen round title bouts for the featherweight crown. In both fights he lost the decision by a close margin. He has won 40 decisions, scored 15 knockouts, and lost ten decisions.

Frisco Bautista was born in the Philippines and came to the United States in 1920. Bautista has established an enviable record in the featherweight class in America. Among the prominent men in his division he has traded punches with are Chick Suggs, Sonny Dorfman, and Johnny Huber.

Reserved seat tickets will be for sale, and coupons will be exchanged at the armory Saturday until 8 p. m. Sunday tickets will be exchanged and sold at the Legion Memorial building. All day Monday they will be on sale in the armory again.

Chandlers Take Two More Games

The Chandler five added two more victories to their long string Friday night by defeating the Comforters, 32-16 and the Congregationalists 55-35 on the Y. M. C. A. court.

The Comforter team launched a stiff attack in the first half of their battle with the Chandlers but were unable to withstand the work of Niles and Fox, who registered 10 points each. Joey Hoffman, who wore a Chandler uniform for the first time, showed up well on the defense.

In the second game of the evening the Chandlers proved much too strong for the Congregationalists by registering 30 more points than the opposing team's 25. Niles again starred as point collector for the winners by adding 20 to their total of 55. Smith trailed him with 11. Krum proved the mainstay of the Congregationalists by adding 15 markers to their score.

Tonight the Chandlers will meet the Hercules powder manufacturers of the Industrial League. The battle will start at 7 o'clock previous to the Industrial League games.

Sporting News Told in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Giants, leaders in the professional football standing, will be able to clinch the National League championship by a victory over Red Grange's New York Yankees at the Polo Grounds tomorrow. This will be the first meeting between the clubs this season.

Tex Rickard has temporarily abandoned hopes of constructing an outdoor boxing arena in New York where he had planned to hold the third Tunney-Dempsey championship battle. Rickard asserts it would be courting financial disaster in view of the proposal of the House Ways and Means Committee in Washington for a 25 per cent tax on all fight tickets of $5 or more.

George Courtney, Oklahoma boxer, has withdrawn a $2,500 deposit and challenge for Mickey Walker's middleweight crown from the New York State Athletic Commission. Displeased by the suggestion of the boxing solons for Courtney to box Jack McVey, negro pugilist, in a middleweight elimination bout, Paddy Mullins, manager of the Oklahoma man, has taken back the bid, and at the same time turned down a tentative match with McVey. The latter now proposes to challenge Walker.

Soccer Football Now Is Major College Pastime
Soccer football at last has made its appearance on the list of varsity sports at the University of Southern California. The popular pastime has been on the intramural calendar of events for several years, but on March 10 next a Trojan varsity will hook up with Stanford university on Borard field, present training site of the varsity football team. It is expected that the Trojan officials will arrange games with colleges in the Southern conference, and that minor sports letters will be awarded the varsity players.

Making a Base Hit
Cupid Childs was a Baltimore boy. When the Spiders came to Baltimore his friends gave him a big floral piece. The flowers were put on one side of the field. The game broke against the Spiders and Pat Tebeau picked up a bat and deliberately went over to the big floral piece and knocked it galley west.

"Hey, Pat, what are you doing with those flowers?" said "Paca."

"Doing to 'em! I'm makin' the only base hit that's been made this afternoon. That's what I'm doing to 'em."

Not Knute Rockne's Child

FROM the Rocky mountains westward it looks as though all good football players go to Hawaii when they die, or at least they hope to go there. They are football mad over in Honolulu and now it is the accepted thing that some western team shall be invited to go there every winter. The climate is against football of the snappet brand, but that makes no difference; there is money, glory and a good time for all.

Utah has been out to the mid-Pacific isles, as have Colorado university, Washington State and Oregon and other university teams from this far western region.

A reflection of the visits is seen in the fact that good Hawaiian boys are now making their way or having their way made for them in this country. They have a mighty fine Hawaiian player on the Oregon Aggies. There is also one at Washington State and one at Whitman.

They like to play in their bare feet, these Hawaiians, and it is pretty hard to make them wear shoes. The boy at Oregon Agricultural college gets away 50-yard punts with his unshod foot and sees no reason why he should be shod.

Speaking of Hawaii, here is a story which the Armstrong coach of the Utah team, tells about Knute Rockne. Knute was in Honolulu when Utah played there last winter, and he refereed the game which the island eleven, writes Lawrence Perry in the Washington Post.

Knowing Rockne's fondness for the shift, Armstrong had his backfield use the famous Notre Dame shift, and he was at pains to tell his team not to beat the ball. Knute watched the backfield in motion for a couple of plays and then suddenly began to slap on penalties. After he had imposed a total of about thirty yards he stopped the play and went to the Utah quarterback.

"Son," he said, "you may think what you're using is my child. I want to tell you that maybe I did have a child like that once, but it was sent to the reformatory."

Every one out in the West—every coach, that is to say—is thoroughly committed to the wing-back idea which Glenn Warner devised years ago. Save for California and Idaho, the writer has not seen a backfield formation which does not send out two ends to the flanks. And how they do work on the opposing ends or carry the ball on reverse plays! So far as the writer has been able to observe, however, Gil Doble is still the past master on the weak side attack.

Golf Runs in Family

Tommy Armour, national open and Canadian open golf champion, is the third member of his family to gain honors in the ancient game. His two older brothers, Alex and Willie, have both carved niches in golfdom's hall of fame.

Would Quit Winter Work to Save His Eyesight

Ossie Bluege, third baseman of the Washington team, has been served with an ultimatum by Clark Griffith, president of the club, to either give up accountancy, which he practices between seasons, or baseball, and he has chosen to stick to the latter.

Convinced that Bluege's batting eye has suffered from his working over figures and under electric lights at night during the winter, Griffith sent for his third sacker and had a heart to heart talk with him.

The result was that Bluege offered to meet his club owner more than half way, promising not only to pass up sizeable profits from his accountancy business, but to spend a lot of time in the open this winter to keep in physical trim.

The Week in Wall Street
New York, Dec. 3. (P.)—Speculation for the advance was continued with considerable violence in this week's stock market. Each day's trading ran around 2,000,000 shares, and among more than 700 stocks, the average of 20 leading industrials gained a record high price for all time and when the industrials showed signs of lagging in the closing days of the week, the rails moved upward, the average advancing to within a point of the year's high mark.
While price movements bore little relation to news developments, the activity of shares of companies which are likely to be beneficiaries of business created by the introduction of the new Ford models this week gave rise to characterizations of the session as "Ford Markets". Secretary Hoover's favorable outline of business conditions, distribution of nearly a billion dollars in dividend and interest payments, relative ease of money market and the announcement of a series of Christmas dividends all contributed to the cheerful feeling in speculative circles.
General Motors and some of the other automotive issues which are expected to be handicapped somewhat by Ford competition, were under selling pressure, but they offered splendid resistance, and losses were relatively slight. Some selling also came into the steel shares but was held in check by predictions of higher steel prices next year by some of the leading executives. Copiers made an excellent response to the stiffening commodity prices, a seasonal advance in Green Canada being the individual feature. Mail order and merchandising

100 MILLION IN GOLD COINS FOR CHRISTMAS
New York, Dec. 3. (P.)—Santa Claus will drop some $100,000,000 in gold coins into expectant Christmas stockings in the United States this year, federal reserve bank officials estimate after the demand for $20,000,000 of the gold coins in New York.
The custom of giving gold coins as Christmas presents places a heavy strain on the Federal Reserve machinery and on the banks that supply their clients with the coins.
The approach of Christmas also means the appearance of $1,000,000 worth of $2.50 gold pieces. This coin is not minted except on special occasions but because of the demand 400,000 of them have been ordered struck off for the Christmas rush.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Bullish sentiment in today's stock market continued at fever pitch, with the main maintaining the leadership of the advance which they assumed yesterday. Early gains ran from 1 to nearly 2 points, with buying stimulated by genuine and operations and steadily increasing public participation. With the most nearly 20 minutes behind the market at the end of the first hour stock exchange authorities tried out their experiment of shortening the quotations in an effort to speed up the ticker machinery.

With about half a billion dollars to be distributed this month in the form of dividends and interest, and millions more in Christmas bonuses, the demand for investment stocks, particularly in the railroad group, continued unabated. Delaware and Hudson jumped more than six points and nearly a dozen other rails, including Atchafalpa, Baltimore and Ohio, Wabash, Atlantic Coast Line, and Jersey Central, sold 2 or more points higher. Buying of the rails was conducted in the face of disappointing October earnings and November traffic statements.

Commercial Solvents, Nash Motors, Congress Cigar, Greene Cananea Copper, S. H. Kress, Case Threshing and Air Reduction, all up 4 to nearly 5 points, were the high spots in the industrial group. The closing was strong. Total sales approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Birthday Party.

On Wednesday evening, November 29, Elzior, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Norton, of 134 Hudson Avenue, entertained a number of her little friends at her home, the occasion being her tenth birthday. The little toast were entertained by Elzior Jacobson, Letha Liscom, Jeanne Ward and Rita Fox, which were enjoyed by all. The donkey game was played and first prize awarded to Rose Norton and consolation to Letha Liscom, after which the children marched to the dining room and delicious refreshments were served. The little children departed for their homes at an early hour, wishing little Miss Norton many more happy birthdays. Those present were Eleanor Jacobson, Cora Hafferty, Margaret O'Reilly, Gloria Schraeder, Letha Liscom, Irene and Marie McDonough, Jeanne Ward, Rita Fox, Master Donald Carter, Rose Norton and the little hostess, Elzior Norton.

Reduced Yields in New Regions

Average Pioneer Not Good Farmer Because of Lack of Experience.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
In American experience new farming regions are likely to be characterized for a generation or two by methods of agriculture which result in gradually reducing yields. The average pioneer is not a good farmer, not because he does not want to be, but partly because he has not the experience and knowledge of his farm and its potentialities in crops under the methods of best by time and trial, and partly because the abundance and cheapness of land in newly developed regions is not favorable to intensive methods of utilization, or careful husbanding of soil resources. Only after this period is past does agriculture in such regions attain a stage of development characterized by increasing yields per acre.

Crop Yields Decline.

This, substantially, is the conclusion reached by B. O. Weltz, of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture. He supports this with facts that fly in the face of the common belief that crop yields per acre have been declining as the virgin fertility of the fields has been exhausted. Department statistics show that in 40 years the combined acreage of corn, wheat, oats, and potatoes has been expanded about 52 per cent. The total production of these four crops has increased 77 per cent. This means that a third of the increased production is the result of a better yield per acre.

Eastern Farms Not Worn Out.

Again, contrary to common belief, he finds the figures show that "most of the increases in acre yields have occurred in the older farming regions east of the Mississippi river, thus disproving another erroneous impression that farms in the older areas of the United States in general have become worn out." In the case of corn, Virginia, Maryland, the New England states, Iowa and Minnesota are named as states recording gains of from 6 to 14 bushels in the average yields per acre. Mr. Weltz concludes that in the course of time, as the farming communities become accustomed to the possibilities of their fields, develop suitable strains of plants, learn profitable use of fertilizers and wise crop rotations, that acre yields in the humid northeastern portions of the United States may approach the present standards in northwestern Europe. In the dryer sections of the United States the acre yields will be limited necessarily by the moisture available to the crops.

Phrase Is Old One

The origin of the phrase, "A little bird told me," which, in various forms, is found in many countries, is said to be the verse of Scripture Ecclesiastes 10:20. "Reverie not the king, nor, not in thy thought; and revile not the rich in thy bed-chamber for a bird of the heavens shall carry the voice and that which hath wings shall carry the matter."

Some Apology

F. B. Writes—"A small girl in our neighborhood was reproved by her mother for calling a neighbor's child homely, and was told to go immediately and apologize. This is how she did it: 'I'm sorry, Alice, I said you were homely. I only meant that your face wasn't very becoming.'"

Legion Boy Scout Troop Promoted

The forty members of American Legion troop of Boy Scouts were promoted with the tenderfoot degree and badges Friday night at the Memorial Building and impressive ceremonies. Howard N. Smith, Ulster County Boy Scout executive, presented the badges and urged the troop to continue the good work started when it organized several weeks ago. He also complimented Scout Master Edward Luedtke and his assistants, John Weber and Percy Jones for the way they are aiding the boys. He classed Mr. Luedtke as a "real leader."

The American Legion Troop accompanied by Troop No. 11 of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church marched in the parade to the Memorial Building, where parents of the scouts had taken. They were welcomed by Scoutmaster Luedtke, who opened the meeting. He gave a short talk to the boys and in words of high praise introduced Howard N. Smith, Ulster County Boy Scout executive. Mr. Smith gave a very inspiring and educational talk concerning scouting and proved that Boy Scouts make better citizens. The movement is now being furthered in 52 countries Mr. Smith pointed out.

Entertainment was furnished by members of the American Legion troop. Edward Fields and Charles Seomian rendered music on the piano and violin respectively which was much appreciated. Robert Liscom accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Robert Liscom, on the piano the very admirably rendered "Just an Ivy Covered Shack" and was forced to respond to an encore. He sang for his second number "Wandering One."

After an address by the Rev. G. L. Withey, chaplain of the Legion, that clearly brought out the principles of scouting, the impressive investiture ceremonies were conducted. Scoutmaster Willis N. Rider of Clinton Avenue M. E. troop, No. 11 presided.

The service consisted of repeating the Boy Scout oath of allegiance to God and country, obedience to superiors and a promise to preserve physical and mental qualities with the highest regard for honesty. The twelve scout laws were repeated by Troop No. 11 and as each rule was recited a candle was lighted on a specially devised stand to remind the scouts being received into the great organization of the important significance of each law.

When the investiture ceremonies were completed Scoutmaster Luedtke urged the parents to inspect the articles of handcraft made by members of the troop, which were on exhibition in the hall.

Delicious refreshments were served and the parents and Boy Scouts chatted together as they partook of the good things to eat. Scoutmaster Luedtke was pleased with the number of parents who attended and urged the fathers of the boys to consider their sons as pals.

The boys given their tenderfoot badges Friday night were Raymond Avery, Joseph Ambrose, Warren Bartlett, Arthur Bonse, Harry Byrnes, Douglas Carter, Frank Clarke, Donald Davis, David Decker, Robert George, Paul Haas, Vernon Hull, John Johnston, Paul Koch, Raymond Kottis, Joseph Lake, Robert Liscom, Albert Lockwood, John Mikesh, Frank Myers, Warren Neer, Robert Purvis, William Reardon, Elmer Riehl, Townsend Rifkenary, Kenneth Roberts, Joseph Sass, Louis Seism, Allen Smith, Kenneth Stratton, Philip Toffel, John Helser, Chester Barth, James Decker.

Odd Barmese Belief

According to Barmese superstition marriage between two persons born on the same day of the week is certain to bring misfortune. To prevent these unfortunate marriages, all children are called by a name which begins with a letter associated with the day of the week upon which they were born.
